IAHSP® INTERNATIONAL CODE OF ETHICS

ETHICS:

Conflicts and ethical questions are to be resolved within chapters, with the Chapter President working with members to resolve conflicts.

Renew your commitment to ...

Is it truthful?

Is it honorable?

Is it fair?

Is it confidential?

Is it original?

Is it informed?

Is it complete?

Is it beyond reproach?

Does it promote understanding?

Does it benefit others?

Does it reflect well on our local IAHSP® Chapter, and IAHSP® International?

If perceived ethics violations and conflicts cannot be resolved within a Chapter, the Chapter President may bring the issue to the Regional Director and the International IAHSP® Ethics Director for resolution of the issue.

Members are urged to keep confidential all matters discussed to preserve reputations of all involved.

The Ethics Director will review written claims and respond to the participants. They will allow participants thirty days to respond to the Ethics Director.

All parties are expected to cooperate and facilitate the review process with intent of conflict resolution.

Failure to respond to the committee's request will result in immediate forfeiture of member benefits for a minimum of thirty days.

IAHSP® INTERNATIONAL CODE OF ETHICS

Upon completion of the review, the IAHSP® Regional Director and the IAHSP® International Ethics Director will recommend appropriate action to the IAHSP® Chapter President, to Jennie Norris, Chairwoman of IAHSP® International, the President of IAHSP® International, and the IAHSP® Director of Operations.

Action may include informal reprimand, formal reprimand with warning, or temporary or permanent forfeiture of member benefits and the IAHSP® Chapter-sponsored opportunities.

With approval from the above parties the IAHSP® Chapter President will expedite any disciplinary action recommended by the IAHSP® International Ethics Director. All inquiries remain confidential.
